Comment: Overall it is a wonderful year at SSNC for me. I see a positive change everywhere and I always proud to be part of this great and wonderful team. I'm sincerely thank you to my team for their constant support and encouragement. My great team is the reason for me to come to the office with a smile each day and there are so many instances I felt a sense of satisfaction while leaving office after work. I'm truly proud of the work we do here at SSNC and DST.

Individual Performance Goals

Surya 2019 - Accurate time reporting and work management

Throughout 2019, demonstrate ability to effectively track time and manage workload:

- Remain focused on assigned project. Estimate requests (RSD or otherwise) that come in, should be routed through the Solution Leads.
- Solution Leads can reach out to experts on the team. Manager should be aware of request to help manage additional workload
- Work requested outside of our team requires Leadership approval (your Manager) to ensure that we are working on the right things.
- Accurate and timely time reporting – i.e. make sure that hours are recorded correctly, identify the sub-project #, investment sub-type, business vertical, primary product and application. Additionally, for projects / programs in production, any additional hours are recorded with a support account number.
- Accurately report rework.
- Project Delivery – For revenue generating projects greater than $25k in revenue and non-revenue generating projects greater than $100k in initial estimate:
 - o 85% of projects are within initial budget (Q3 and Q4 2018 = 63%). Tier 3 estimate mid-point
 - o 85% of projects are delivered on time (Q3 and Q4 2018 = 69%) We will measure against the committed date (not target

o 90% of projects are within initial target margin (Q3 and Q4 2018 = 86%)

He demonstrated this many times as he stepped in to help RICC when they were having issues. He did this while keeping up with his priority IVR work.

Comment: I agree with Surya's comments. Surya did an excellent job this year with project execution and quality. He has been the technical lead for the IVR Redesign, guiding a very junior team of developers. His patience and mentorship has been excellent for those developers working with him. He took the lead on the CDP cloud and I have gotten great feedback from SCM and others that he worked with to that setup. He earned their trust and respect with the work that he did with cloud implementation. Surya was a key contributor to the IVR Release Planning exercise. His understanding of the work was helpful during the exercise to ensure that everyone was on the same page and we were planning appropriately based on what we knew at the time.

Surya was also the SME for RICC, even though we have tried to roll Surya off support of this application, he recognizes when the work is above those that have taken over and he steps in when appropriate to help the team when they are stuck or just need his guidance.

Surya has been key with the IVR Automation effort, building out the framework that was needed for automation.

Surya takes ownership of everything he does. He has stepped up this year and has demonstrated his ability to navigate new technical designs and to mentor/lead other developers.

I could able to resolve lot of issues with middleware, network and CDP teams with effective communication. I need to work very closely with the team on a daily basis. During the initial setup of the project, team was not having enough clarity on the internal technical building blocks of the project. I used presentations, diagrams, training sessions to effectively communicate and bring everyone on same pace. Now we have Neil, Kris, and Ozoda on the technical team who can effectively work on the project, effective communication was the key behind this successful team.
